Latest version: MX Player is a free media player app for Android and iOS smartphones that specializes in video but also capable of playing audio. The latest updates work on iOS smartphones and Windows PCs. Can play videos in quality and 4K/Ultra HD and reads, modifies and syncs subtitles. Supports all video file formats and subtitles. Tricks for optimal video viewing on your phoneYe your smartphone is becoming the most versatile tool for everyday life. You can do almost anything on your phone nowadays. Laptops in your pocket, backpack or bag, smartphones are now indispensable for work and leisure in modern society. Video streaming sites are on the rise faster than television in the 1960s. You can watch full movies and series on your phone streaming from popular sites like Netflix, Hulu, Disney+ and Gaia. Watch and share live videos on YouTube or Facebook. Get in-game tips from Xbox Live and PlayStation Live. Take videos of your favorite moments with your phone's camera and upload them to show your friends. You need a media reader app that can keep up with your digital world. MX supports all video formats, including MP4, AVI, 3GP, WMV, MKV and others. Can read and edit subtitles in SSA/ASS, SRT, TXT, and VTT file extensions. If you want to upgrade your free MX player sponsored by ad for Android to payment once, without MX Player Pro ads, you can get an uninterrupted video view with the basic features of the app. Because this new version is still in development, it won't support all online video streaming sites in certain regions. The best gesture control on smartphones With its new HW+ decoder for hardware acceleration and multi-core decoding to improve playback performance, MX Video Player accepts many gestures for easy action control. Pinch your fingers to zoom in, expand to shrink, swipe across the screen to pan, and tap to play or pause. Get more options with the hard-press sub menu. MX Player uploads all videos to the phone in the library at the time of installation. Access all your videos from a single application, regardless of their format. You won't have to worry about your kids messing up their phone or having apps that shouldn't be watching videos. The Kids Lock feature allows parents to lock the screen of the currently playing video so that random gestures do not interrupt the video, close the app, open a new application, or change your phone's settings. You can check out the children's block by tapping a specific spot in the corner of the screen. For subtitles, swipe forward or backward to see the next or previous text, scroll up or down to move the next one, and pinch or expand (zoom in/out) to change the size of the text. Your app supports subtitles in different languages, and you can change text properties, such as size, color, and structure. This media player needs permissions Different apps need different permissions so that they can access certain features on your smartphone. You must grant all of the following permissions to install MX Player: Location to find friends for video transfers and secure streaming and Bluetooth access for AV sync and file transfer. Read and write space external storage to run media files and rename or delete videos and save downloaded files. Network, Wi-Fi and internet for downloads, updates and direct streaming. Camera to create your own videos. Vibrate for notifications and feedback control due to phone vibrations. It can be a bit tedious to accept every permission as it comes out on the screen in order to install the app. The installer has trouble loading all the right functions if you refuse to give permission. Tap Accept whenever asks, so as not to cancel the download. Sharing videos with friends incompatible with smartphones Do you think you can't share videos with your friends because you have an Android and have iPhones or vice versa? Sharing videos doesn't have to be difficult. There is an easy way to share the videos you took with your phone's camera so that anyone can watch them, even if they have a different operating system on their phone. If you upload your videos to Google Photos, you'll get a link that you can share with all your friends via SMS, email, WhatsApp, Skype, or social media app, so they can download the video where they want. Most smartphones have Google Photos preinstalled, but if you don't have it, you can get the app in the Google Play Store or iOS App Store. Google's privacy settings make it secure and intuitive. Don't avoid your friends because of their phones. There's an easy way for everyone to share your favorite moments. The leading media player for smartphoneThe MX player for Android and iPhone is freeware supported by ads that can play any video file with or without subtitles in many languages and formats. It is an excellent tool for running video or audio files downloaded from the web, taken with your phone's camera or played from video streaming websites. The app requires a lot of permissions for optimal performance and is not installed on all smartphones. In case your phone can't support the application, even with an APK file, you can try KMPlayer for smartphones and Windows or VLC Media Player for Windows, Android, Mac and iPhone.
